

Julie Presas

Vice President, General Counsel
and Secretary
OCLC

Julie Presas is the Vice President, General Counsel and Secretary at OCLC, Inc., a global library cooperative that provides technology services, original research and community programs to improve access to the world's information. Julie oversees all aspects of the corporate legal function including M&A transactions, litigation, compliance, governance and privacy. Since becoming General Counsel in 2014, she has built a high performing team, expanded the provision of legal services to the global operation, improved efficiencies and introduced initiatives designed to "make it easier to do business with OCLC". As the chief transactional lawyer, Julie has led the company through multiple acquisitions in the United States, Canada and Europe. As corporate secretary, Julie is a key advisor to OCLC officers and the Board of Trustees on legal matters involving the corporation and advises the Board on compliance, ethics, conflicts of interest and board succession planning. Julie's focus is also on developing leaders within the OCLC legal department and throughout the organization. To further this objective, Julie serves as the executive sponsor of the OCLC Women's Network.

Julie earned her undergraduate degree from The Ohio State University and her law degree from the University of Toledo College of Law.
