

Donald M. Casey, Jr.

Chief Executive Officer
Cardinal Health – Medical Segment

Don Casey is the chief executive officer of the Medical segment of Cardinal Health, which is a leading provider of medical products and supply chain services to hospitals, laboratories, physician offices, surgery centers and other sites of care across the health care continuum.

The Medical segment manufactures many of the products it markets and distributes, including gloves, apparel and fluid management products. The segment also provides integrated services such as procedure-based kitting and inventory management solutions to help medical professionals control costs and improve the quality of patient care.

Don joined Cardinal Health in April of 2012 bringing 27 years of global health care experience to the role, as well as an outstanding track record in identifying and commercializing medical innovations. He served as chief executive officer of the Gary and Mary West Wireless Health Institute, a non-profit research organization focused on lowering the cost of health care through novel technology solutions from 2010 to 2012. Previously, Don served as worldwide chairman for Johnson & Johnson's comprehensive care group and a member of the company's executive committee, where he oversaw its cardiovascular, diagnostic, diabetes and vision care franchises around the world. Don began his career with Johnson & Johnson in 1985, advancing into executive positions throughout the company's consumer, pharmaceutical and medical device franchises.

Don serves on the boards of Surgical Specialties (formerly AngioTech), AdvaMed and The James Foundation. He earned a Bachelor of Business Administration degree in finance and a Master of Business Administration degree from the University of Notre Dame.
