Contracting Officer
Air Force Life Cycle Management Center

Melissa Koppenhoefer is a Contracting Officer for the Air Force Lifecycle Management Center. She started her Civil Service career with the Air Force in January 2014. In addition to negotiating and awarding contracts, she advises her program teams on federal acquisition laws, regulations, and policy in order to deliver necessary capability to our warfighters while protecting tax-payer interests. Prior to entering Civil Service, Melissa served as a law clerk with a multi-national eyewear company.

Melissa obtained her JD in 2013 from the University of Dayton School of Law and was subsequently admitted to the Ohio State Bar. In March 2017, she had the distinct honor of being sworn into the US Supreme Court.

She is active in the Dayton Bar Association (DBA) and currently chairs the Leadership Development Program. In 2019, she was selected as a DBA, Rising Star.
